

Call for Applications: Awards for Research in Women's Health and Sex Differences

To be announced at the 4th Annual CREWHS Symposium October 28, 2022

The Center for Research in Women's Health and Sex Differences (CREWHS) is calling for investigators to submit their research on women's health or sex differences. The work can be basic science, translational or clinical in nature, and ideally will establish collaboration between clinical and basic science investigators or between junior and senior investigators.

Winners of the award will receive up to $50,000 (direct costs) for a year with a potential to extend for a second year. The funded research will be highlighted at the 4th Annual CREWHS Symposium on October 28, 2022.

Applicants should submit their NIH biosketch, a 2-page research description, lay summary (max. 4 sentences) and a detailed budget with justification. The research description should outline the question being addressed, demonstrate feasibility of the proposed research, include a statement on how the work will impact women's health or sex differences in health or disease and what outputs are expected as a result of the award (abstracts, publications, grant submissions). Projects with high translational impact and with a strong potential to reach next-level funding will be prioritized.

Please submit your research application via email at groupwomenshealthresearchadmin@cshs.org by 5:00 pm on Friday, April 8th, 2022. Winners will be notified on Friday, May 27th, 2022

For the official request for applications (RFA) and more information, please contact groupwomenshealthresearchadmin@cshs.org.
